

Michael A. Ocasio is president and chief executive officer, as well as a founding member, of Small Business Development Corporation of Orange County \(SBDC-OC\). Established in 2001, the corporation is one of seven non-profit, public benefit economic development organizations residing under the California Infrastructure and Economic Development Bank (IBank) located in the Governor's Office of Business & Economic Development (Go-BIZ). Development corporations focus on the development of underserved communities and providing access to mainstream capital markets.

As a former senior commercial banking executive and professional with more than 25 years of experience in community economic development, Michael currently serves as president of the Association of Financial Development Corporations. The state-wide industry trade association represents the development corporations at the California State Legislature.

Michael's interests in bettering his local and regional community are further evident through his current and past involvement with a variety of non-profits and agencies whose work supports social services, affordable housing and diversity initiatives. These activities include serving as the past chairman of Family Services Association, the largest non-profit social services agency in the Inland Empire, and as a commissioner with the Riverside County Sheriff's Department Commission on Recruitment, Retention and Diversity.

Michael is a graduate of the University of Illinois and holds certification as an Economic Development Finance Professional (EDFP) from the National Development Council.
